

SCHOOL OF ARCHITECTURE,
PLANNING & PRESERVATION

Join the Historic Preservation and Community Planning studio for a discussion on planning with foresight. Foresight (also called strategic foresight) is an approach that aims at making sense of the future, understanding drivers of change that are outside of one's control, and preparing for what may lead to success or failure in the future.

PETRA HURTADO

Research Director at the American Planning Association, heading APA's research programs and foresight practice.

She is responsible for expanding a future-focused research agenda and advancing planning practices that assist communities in navigating change.
